Description of Requirements

Context of the Requirement	Despite consistent and high economic growth, India continues to have millions living in persistent poverty. In addition, certain social groups which face social exclusion and discrimination have been bearing a disproportionate burden of rural poverty and livelihood insecurity such as the Scheduled Castes, the Scheduled Tribes, the Minorities, persons with disability, trafficked survivors, bonded labourers, manual scavengers among others. The Government of India has initiated several enabling rights-based legislations and programmes but challenges of implementation remain with urgent need to improve efficiency, inclusiveness and accountability such as the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Programme (MGNREGP) and Aajeevika - National Rural Livelihoods Mission (NRLM). NRLM was launched in 2011 with an aim to reduce poverty by enabling 70 million BPL households to access gainful self-employment and skilled wage employment opportunities. UNDP is partnering with National Rural Livelihoods Mission (NRLM) to extend technical support for effective and inclusive implementation of the programme. Aajeevika - National Rural Livelihoods Mission (NRLM) is committed to focusing and reaching out to the poorest and most vulnerable rural families. NRLM envisages creation of empowered community organisations of poor women who, along with accessing financial and livelihood services and resources, must be facilitated to take on issues exacerbating socio-economic deprivation. The National Rural Livelihoods Mission recognizes that special efforts are required to reach out to vulnerable groups especially those that face social exclusion and discrimination. In partnership with UNDP, the Ministry of Rural Development is taking concrete steps to evolve strategies for working with these groups under the National Rural Livelihood Mission. The recent passage of the path-breaking ‘Prohibition of Employment as Manual Scavengers and their Rehabilitation Act, 2013’ has provided a roadmap for a convergent strategy to improve sanitation, prohibit the inhuman practice of manual scavenging and provide alternative employment to persons previously engaged in manual scavenging. Manual scavenging is a significant social issue and a gross violation of basic human rights which has a severe impact on the women of this community. Recognising this, the National Rural Livelihoods Mission proposes to undertake pilot interventions to rehabilitate persons engaged in this practice. The pilot interventions are to be implemented by State Rural Livelihoods Missions (SRLMs) of six states where prevalence of manual scavenging is high – Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Gujarat and Maharashtra.

TERMS OF REFERENCEBackground

Despite consistent and high economic growth, India continues to have millions living in persistent poverty. In addition, certain social groups which face social exclusion and discrimination have been bearing a disproportionate burden of rural poverty and livelihood insecurity such as the Scheduled Castes, the Scheduled Tribes, the Minorities, persons with disability, trafficked survivors, bonded labourers, manual scavengers among others.

The Government of India has initiated several enabling rights-based legislations and programmes but challenges of implementation remain with urgent need to improve efficiency, inclusiveness and accountability such as the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Programme (MGNREGP) and Aajeevika - National Rural Livelihoods Mission (NRLM). NRLM was launched in 2011 with an aim to reduce poverty by enabling 70 million BPL households to access gainful self-employment and skilled wage employment opportunities. UNDP is partnering with National Rural Livelihoods Mission (NRLM) to extend technical support for effective and inclusive implementation of the programme.

Aajeevika - National Rural Livelihoods Mission (NRLM) is committed to focusing and reaching out to the poorest and most vulnerable rural families. NRLM envisages creation of empowered community organisations of poor women who, along with accessing financial and livelihood services and resources, must be facilitated to take on issues exacerbating socio-economic deprivation.

The National Rural Livelihoods Mission recognizes that special efforts are required to reach out to vulnerable groups especially those that face social exclusion and discrimination. In partnership with UNDP, the Ministry of Rural Development is taking concrete steps to evolve strategies for working with these groups under the National Rural Livelihood Mission.

The recent passage of the path-breaking 'Prohibition of Employment as Manual Scavengers and their Rehabilitation Act, 2013' has provided a roadmap for a convergent strategy to improve sanitation, prohibit the inhuman practice of manual scavenging and provide alternative employment to persons previously engaged in manual scavenging. Manual scavenging is a significant social issue and a gross violation of basic human rights which has a severe impact on the women of this community. Recognizing this, the National Rural Livelihoods Mission proposes to undertake pilot interventions to rehabilitate persons engaged in this practice. The pilot interventions are to be implemented by State Rural Livelihoods Missions (SRLMs) of six states where prevalence of manual scavenging is high – Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Gujarat and Maharashtra.

Objectives

The National Rural Livelihoods Mission and UNDP is looking for a suitable agency for each of the six states to undertake identification, profiling and livelihood mapping of families engaged in manual scavenging in high prevalence districts. Separate proposals are invited for each of the six states.

Scope of Work and Responsibilities

The selected organization shall, under the guidance of the Programme Analyst (Poverty), have the following responsibilities:

1. Identify two districts each in the state with highest prevalence of manual scavenging based on proxy indicators (indicators to be selected in consultation with NRLM-UNDP team)
2. Design a detailed study to be taken up in the two districts to identify and profile families engaged in manual scavenging (including families who were earlier practicing and now liberated)
3. Conduct participatory livelihood mapping exercises to map the existing livelihood skill sets and qualifications, as well as aspirations and opportunities for skilling and employment among families engaged in manual scavenging
4. Submit interim reports of the study to NRLM-UNDP
5. Consolidate the cataloguing, findings of the study and participatory livelihood mapping exercises into a detailed database and report
6. Facilitate state level consultations to validate findings of the study and assist SRLMs in action planning for pilot interventions based on findings of the study
7. Design and facilitate state level consultations with representatives of communities engaged in manual scavenging and CSOs working on the issue to validate findings of the study and enable SRLMs in action planning for pilot interventions based on findings of the study. The agency will be responsible for ensuring participation of the representatives from the communities engaged in manual scavenging, their organisations and advocacy organisations. NRLM and SRLM representatives will also be part of the consultations. UNDP will take care of the logistical arrangements for this event while NRLM will ensure participation of NRLM and SRLM representatives.
8. Finalise the report and database based on recommendations from the consultation
